Robert Grey Named as Vice-Chair of the Hunton & Williams Community Service Committee

Hunton & Williams is proud to announce the appointment of Robert J. Grey, Jr., as vice-chair of the firm's community service committee. As vice-chair, Grey will provide leadership in coordinating the pro bono efforts for Hunton & Williams' 19 offices worldwide.

"I am proud to have Robert serve with me; his assistance will be invaluable in renewing a commitment to pro bono work and our pro bono clients. He will be an integral part of instituting the new pro bono policy adopted by the executive committee of the firm that states all U.S. lawyers are expected to represent pro bono clients each year," said George Hettrick, chair of the community service committee.

Robert Grey has shown a dedication to service throughout his career. He was elected as president of the American Bar Association in 2004. He has also been active in many community matters and has chaired the Greater Richmond Chamber of Commerce, the Mayor's committee on the performing arts and most recently was a Richmond Mayoral candidate.

"I am looking forward to working with George Hettrick on the community service committee. The firm's leadership and participation distinguish us among our peers. The challenge will be to exceed our expectations as we grow while maintaining a strong commitment to this core value," commented Grey.

Robert Grey, a partner in the Richmond office of Hunton & Williams, has a law practice focused on administrative matters before state and federal agencies, mediation and dispute resolution, and legislative representation of clients.
