Hunton & Williams LLP's Energy Practice Publishes Several Chapters in 2018 Getting the Deal Through – Renewable Energy Inaugural Edition

Hunton & Williams announces its participation with the Law Business Research Ltd. in the publication of the inaugural edition of the book, Getting the Deal Through: Renewable Energy 2018. The guide provides corporate counsel and international practitioners with a comprehensive worldwide legal analysis of the laws and regulations relating to renewable energy. Eric Pogue, co-chair of the renewable energy and clean power practice served as contributing editor of the guide.

Hunton & Williams' global energy and infrastructure lawyers prepared several chapters in the guide, including the opening chapter, which provided a global overview of the legal and regulatory issues that practitioners face in the renewable energy space, authored by Washington, DC partner Eric Pogue. Other team members who authored chapters include Jeff Schroeder (United States), Laura Jones (United States), Mike Klaus (United States) and Ryan Ketchum (Ethiopia and Nepal). Brian Zimmet and Tauna Szymanski also contributed to the United States' chapter.

Our renewable energy practice is known globally for its international scope, depth of experience, breadth of knowledge and outstanding client service. The team is comprised of nearly 100 corporate, project finance, lending, environmental, litigation, regulatory and tax attorneys in the United States, Europe and Asia who navigate all aspects of the development, financing, acquisition and disposition of renewable power projects. The renewable energy and clean power practice is consistently recognized by leading legal publications including Chambers and Partners, and The Legal 500.
